

Library awarded grant

A grant of three hundred dollars has been awarded to the St. Joseph's library by the Association of College and Research Libraries, a division of the American Library Association.

The grant was one of 70 selected from among 294 applications. The grants program this year was made possible by Kennecott Copper Corporation, McGraw-Hill Publishing company, National Biscuit company, Olin Mathieson Chemical corporation, Pitney-Bowes, Inc., Time, Inc., the United States Steel Foundation, Inc., and the H. W. Wilson Foundation, Inc.

The ACRL grants program was initiated in 1955 with a grant of $30,000 from the U.S. Steel Foundation. The program, directed to the general needs of all colleges and universities, is designed for improving the quality of library service to higher education.

Father Charles Banet, head of the college's library, said, "The grant will be used to purchase foreign language arts books, which will implement the college's new art program under the direction of Father David Van Horn.

SJC fund program nets $265,000

The Diamond Jubilee Development Program, the long-range plan for a better St. Joseph's College, is now just a year old. In that year the program, the brainchild of the college administration, the lay board of trustees, alumni groups and interested outside parties, has netted more than $265,000. And, thus far, all donations received have been from individuals, rather than from corporations or foundations.

To date 186 persons have donated or pledged $1000 or more to become Fellows of the college. Some of the pledges have been for as much as five and ten thousand dollars.

Numbered on the list of Fellows are many people who are not alumni of the college, or who have never before been connected with the institution. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower, Peace Corps director R.

Sergeant Shriver, former Postmaster-general and Democratic national chairman James Farley, eight bishops, several judges and corporation presidents, and a newspaper publisher.

Of the $265,000 total the St. Joseph's alumni have contributed almost 25 percent, or about $71,000. There are also some 35 alumni Fellows who have contributed about $40,000.

The directors of the program were particularly pleased with the fine showing in the Rensselaer area. There are 31 Fellows from that district alone, and over and above their $1000 pledges, the college has received nearly $35,000 from other Rensselaer citizens.

The Development program is the result of two and a half years of planning. Spearheading the drive were Father Raphael Gross, president of St. Joseph's, Father John Lefko, the college's director of development, and the lay board of trustees. From there the program branched out to hard-working groups of alumni and to other persons in Rensselaer and other areas interested in the college and its welfare.

The Fellows program was started just one year ago with the hope that in a year about 50 Fellows could be enlisted. Since that time 186 persons have joined the program, and several hundred more have expressed interest in it.

CP's to present "Matchmaker"

By JOHN KANE

On March 16 at 8 p.m. the Columbian Players and several girls of St. Mary-of-the-Woods will present George Carse and Susan Wise in Thornton Wilder's farcical Matchmaker.

The slap-happy story concerns a wealthy merchant and his quest for a bride. The setting is New York of the 1880's. Horace Vandergelder, the rich merchant, hires Mrs. Dolly Levi, a professional matchmaker, to secure for him an acceptable bride.

Complications arise, however, when Mrs. Levi falls madly in love with her client. In the ensuing course of events, Mrs. Levi pushes several would-be girl friends out of the picture and schemes to capture Horace for herself.

The list of characters for the presentation includes George Carse as Horace, Susan Wise as Mrs. Dolly Levi, and Pat Mercer as Mrs. Irene Molloy, a potential fiancée who is cut out by the love-smitten Mrs. Levi.

Other members of the cast include Bill Kantra, Jim Betz, Huck Quigley, Rudy Diblik, Tom Mueller and Dwyane Hunn.

The play is under the co-directorship of Sister Mary Olive of the "Woods" and Mr. Willard Walsh, moderator of the Columbian Players. Members of the staff include: Jim Delaney, set design; Bill Bean, lights; stage crew Gary Will, Bob Geofreon and Al Bavolek.

Ohio club's Monte Carlo to highlight mixer weekend

The student council met Monday night in the Rec hall before a small audience. Chief topic of interest was the mixer scheduled for this weekend.

Council social chairman Jim

Phase receives ICPA award

By AUDREY URBANCZYK

Phase editor, Bill Vaught, announced this week that last year's Phase had received honorable mention for its religious section in the Indiana Collegiate Press Association's judging of yearbooks, and also that appointments for this year's staff have been completed.

The editor of last year's Phase was Bill Downard and the section editor of the prize-winning religious section was Jim Marecsa, a Xavier student.

Section editors are: Academic, Dan Zawila and Jim Hattermer; social, Hank Wilken; athletic, Bill Downard and John O'Reilly; organization, Pat Bresnahan; Calumet, Jane Warner and Ken Marcotte; religious, Jim Marecsa.

Photographers are: Jim Ross, Paul Bubnys, Jim Keating, Len Palicki, Frank Jozaite, and Joe Li.

Vaught also asked that any students having pictures of the Homecoming or Towers dances submit them to the yearbook for consideration. These pictures may be dropped off at either the Phase office or the Stuff office.

Tuerff announced that seven girls' schools had been invited for this weekend's mixer and that at least four of them were definitely coming. Tuerff estimated that there will be at least two hundred girls coming from Mundelein, St. Mary-of-the-Woods, Xavier and St. Francis of Joliet. Yet to be heard from were Barat, St. Francis of Ft. Wayne and St. Elizabeth's nursing school of Lafayette.

It was also announced that the Ohio club would hold its annual Monte Carlo on the afternoon of the mixer.

President Emil Labbe announced that a Lenten committee had been formed to explore the possibilities of holding activities during the Lenten season.

Vice-president Mick Kaminiski said that copies of rules and entry blanks for the "Little 500" would be available.

USMC officer team to visit SJC Feb. 25

The Marine Corps Officer Selection team will visit here on February 25th through February 26, 1963 for the purpose of explaining the officer programs and interviewing applicants for commissions. The team will be located on campus at the Recreation Hall from 9:00 a. m. to 4:0 p.m.

Seniors may learn about the Marine Officer Candidate Course (OCC) or the Aviation Officer Candidate Course (AOCC). The OCC is designed to prepare the applicant for the duties of a Marine ground officer, while the AOCC will specifically prepare the man for assignment as a Marine aviator.

The Columbian Players and the girls of St. Mary-of-the-Woods play to an empty house as they prepare for their forthcoming presentation.

Pre-Cana conferences to be repeated this semester

Last semester's series of Pre-Cana Conferences will be repeated during the present semester, according to Father O'Dell, director of the project. Six different topics concerning marriage will be analyzed and discussed during the sessions. Lectures will be given, as in the previous series, by guest speakers Father Leonard Kostka, Fr. Edwin Kaiser, Fr. Rudolph Bierberg, Fr. Paul White, Dr. Paul Williams, and Fr. George Lubeley.

Tentatively, the sessions will be in room 219 of the Science Building on Wednesday evenings at eight. Each meeting will consist of an hour-long lecture and an open discussion period among the guest speaker and the participants.

Although the Conferences were intended primarily as a service for St. Joe students, especially those contemplating marriage, this semester's series will be open to couples from the surrounding area.

Father O'Dell expressed his satisfaction with last semester's series, saying that they were "well attended." He said that the turnout at two of the conferences was disappointing due to a conflict in the schedule of events. Aside from those instances, however, the series was successful.

SJC geology club to raffle off '55 auto

The St. Joseph's geology club, in an effort to raise funds for the club's activities, is raffling off a 1955 Plymouth four-door sedan.

According to club president John Bender the car has only 37,000 miles and is at least a $300 value. Bender also said that the car is in good mechanical condition and has no rust.

Tickets for the raffle may be obtained from any geology club member.

Proceeds from the raffle will finance publication of the club newsletter, Talus, which is sent to all St. Joseph's geology alumni, and will also help pay for this year's club field trip to central Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

The team is improved, but what about the fans?

Once upon a time there was a little girl. When she was good she was very, very good. And when she was bad she was horrid.

Once upon another time there are a large group of Puma basketball fans. When their team is winning they are very good indeed. But when their team is losing they are worse, much worse, than horrid.

Now it was not always thus, for there are those among us who can remember those not-so-far off days of only last year when St. Joe basketball fans were known for both spirit and sportsmanship. But, alas and alack, those days of happy memory seem to be forever gone from us.

And those of us who treasure that memory see, at least weekly, in our student stands, its antithesis grow stronger and more prevalent.

We have seen and heard every single regular member of the basketball team not only criticized, but vilified, by back-biting "supporters" during the course of both the Evansville and the Valparaiso contests.

We have seen and heard the St. Joseph's coaching staff second-guessed, ridiculed and similarly vilified by those same "supporters."

We have seen and heard Negro players of opposing teams booed and hooted for little "reason" other than that they are Negro.

We have seen and heard "infallible" rooters who, at least eighty percent of the time, see fit to disagree with calls of referees and to express that disagreement longly, loudly and profanely.

We have seen and heard the time-honored custom of crowd silence at free throws rudely and repeatedly broken.

We have seen and heard, with the Pumas holding the low side of a score, virtual immobility and silence from the same stands which a year ago held a throng that cheered the team back from a seventeen-point deficit in the Anderson game.

No, it has not always been thus. Only in this year have we seen the departures from the sportsmanship which has been, to a very significant degree, a tradition at St. Joseph's.

Congratulations, Puma fans. You've come a long way.

The truth---humbly presented

John "Jay-Jay" Domke just finished a 117 page letter to a certain Mundlebundle who apparently is psychoanalyzing him. He'll get his B.S. in June.

John "Smoky the Bear" Reager had a hot dream one night—so hot his bed started smoldering. Now he's no longer smoking since that only adds fuel to the fire.

Wild Bill Vaught just rolled through Goodland with a "Yuk-Yuk," and a hotty hi-yo red flasher behind him.

All the world's a stage as strummin' "Scooter" Carse hustles a certain leading lady Sue . . . wonder what's playing, a tragedy, comedy or a farce?

Contest entrant reviews Catholic college system

Editor's note: The following is a brief synopsis of a speech given by writer McHugh in last semester's Father Rapp speech contest.

By ROBERT MCHUGH

Several weeks ago I gave a speech on the topic of "Catholic College Education" in the Father Rapp Speech Contest. Unfortunately several misconceptions developed. In the first place my speech was not an "attack," but positive criticism. More importantly, I never meant to convey the impression that I was speaking specifically of St. Joseph's College, the opinions of a certain speech teacher to the contrary. St. Joseph would be in a sorry state if it embodied all the faults I tried to illustrate. It is not I, but the person who thought I referred only to St. Joseph's who is guilty of excessive condemnation!

Catholic college education is inferior to that offered in many non-Catholic institutions, both public and private. The verity of this statement can easily be proved by a glance at past accomplishments and present effort. Frank O'Malley, who edits Notre Dame's "Reviews of Politics," has said that our five best Catholic institutions cannot measure up to the best non-Catholic institutions "in the AREA."

Granted that Catholic education is on the whole inferior, what has brought this state into being? Basically I think the fault lies in three areas: overexpansion without the necessary material assets, an overemphasis on academic "spoon-feeding," and misplaced paternalism on the part of the clergy. Space does not permit more than a brief expansion of each point.

Catholic colleges do not receive the funds, either from private foundations or the state or federal governments, that many non-Catholic institutions do. If we can't compete financially, does this mean we must close our colleges? Of course not, but is it any more realistic to continue our frantic efforts at expansion? We may be unable to compete ("compete" is a bad choice) quantitatively, but how about qualitatively? By limiting enrollments and not using our resources on new facilities needed to accommodate more students, we could better use these resources to augment present facilities.

Most Catholics go to non-Catholic institutions already and Newman Club statistics prove they are not losing their faith—in fact, very often, these students are responsible for many conversions. More can attend these institutions with profit in the future. John Saint Stevas, a noted British Catholic layman, notes that England has no Catholic colleges, as such, yet has produced a brilliant leadership for the laity. He also believes that priests should be kept out of education. I think we can agree, at least, that England does have some brilliant laymen! Finally, co-operation among colleges might be expanded beyond the athletic field such as Hope College and Valparaiso University have done.

Secondly, Catholic schools must develop a more critical attitude in the classroom, be less chauvinistic and dogmatic, and place more emphasis on primary sources, especially in religion and philosophy. By receiving what is little more than indoctrination, by taking truth as propositional correctness, students will not have the elasticity to meet life situations. Let's hope these students have a good store of faith and a little irrationality!

Finally, and most important, Catholic schools must rid themselves of the stifling paternalism exhibited by shortsighted authorities. Until such things as bed checks, newspaper control and censorship, faculty moderators over student organizations, uninvited searches of rooms, and the like are done away with, there can be no "communities of scholars," but only the knowing leaders and the untrustworthy students. In a very fine article in the December 1957 edition of the "Catholic World," Daniel and Sidney Callahan contend that there can never be a "Catholic Harvard" as long as Catholic schools continue to stifle initiative.

Let's face it, the Church is not dealing with Spaniards, and the sooner it fully realizes this, the better it will be for all concerned. If Catholic college authorities begin to treat their students like adults, if instructors stop taking them for high school seniors, then the students will respond by developing initiative and maturity. As Father Cavanaugh pointed out, God's respect for our freedom is so great "that His own mastery gives way before it."

Above, I have very briefly stated the problems and some solutions which must be faced. How does any of this apply to St. Joseph? It would be interesting to see what some faculty members think, but I wonder where they would print their opinions if they wanted to comment.

Men accepted for either program will attend a leadership training course at Quantico, Virginia for a period of ten weeks after graduation from college.

Having successfully completed the course he will be commissioned a second lieutenant and in the case of OCC will be assigned to Officer's Basic School at Quantico or in the case of AOCC he will be transferred to Pensacola, Fla. for flight training. These programs are available to either mid-term or full term seniors.

All other students (freshmen, sophomores or juniors) are eligible for Marine Corps Platoon Leaders Class (PLC) which is either ground or aviation.

The PLC program not only assures the student of a commission upon graduation but allows him to count all time enrolled in the program on longevity for pay purposes. This can mean as much as $127 a month over the regular pay of second lieutenant.

If any information is needed prior to the arrival of the team, information may be obtained from the local Marine Recruiting office.

Red-hot Crusaders pound Pumas, 104-85

By CHARLES J. SCHUTTROW

Dennis Olson and Chuck Kriston combined for 65 of sharp-shooting Valparaiso's 104 points Saturday night at Valparaiso as the Crusaders avenged a 97-77 loss Jan. 15 at St. Joseph's and gained their first Indiana Collegiate Conference win of the season, 104-85, over the Pumas.

Valparaiso now stands 1-7 in the ICC while the Pumas sport a 3-5 conference mark. St. Joe now has a 10-9 overall record.

Olson, a 6-3 junior guard from Waukesha, Wis., dumped in 14 of 22 field goal tries and added seven of nine free throws to account for 35 points.

Kriston, the 6-2 guard-forward and team captain from Valparaiso, made 13 of 17 field goals and four of four free throws to account for 30 points.

Although the Crusaders jumped to an early 7-0 lead, St. Joe got their fast break working with six minutes gone in the half and took their biggest lead of the game, 27-24, with just over eleven minutes gone in the half.

However, with Larry Holle and Ken Traupmann dominating the boards and Olson and Knoefel Jones scoring 11 of the Crusaders' next 19 points, Valparaiso moved out front by 46-39 at the half and were never headed after that.

With less than five minutes gone in the second half, Olson and Kriston keyed the Valparaiso surge which broke the game open. Accompanying the sharp-shooting Crusader attack which registered a blistering .621 second-half field goal percentage was a highly-effective three-out and two-under defense which allowed Valpo to press Puma ball handlers with two defenders at all times.

Chief victim of the Valpo defense was high-scoring Puma guard George Post, who was held to five field goals in 11 attempts.

He added three free throws in six attempts to finish with 13 points, well below the 22.5 ICC scoring average he took into the game.

Valparaiso outrebounded the Pumas by 49-38, with Holle and Traupmann leading the way with 12 and 11 rebounds respectively. Dennis Houlihan and Art Voelinger grabbed six rebounds apiece to lead St. Joe.

In addition to Olson and Kriston, other scorers in double figures were Jones with 14 and Holle with 13.

Russ Marcinek, the ICC's leading scorer, dumped in 29 points with ten field goals and nine free throws to lead the Pumas. Other Pumas in double figures were Post and Houlihan with 13 and Fred Farley with 11.

Marcinek now has totalled 188 points in eight conference games for a 23.5 average. Post has 148 points in seven ICC games for a 21.1 average.

The Crusaders made 42 of 72 field goals for a .583 percentage and added 20 of 25 free throws for an .800 mark.

St. Joe settled for a .432 percentage with 32 of 71 field goals and a .677 performance at the free throw line by making 21 of 31 charity tosses.

Russ Marcinek, despite a hand in the face, goes for two against Valpo.

Pumas at Evansville Saturday

By HUGH MARTINELLI

In the Puma's next encounter they travel to Evansville to battle the Purple Aces, who are currently riding atop the Indiana Collegiate Conference with an unblemished 8-0 record. Evansville has not lost to the Pumas since 1959 and they dumped them earlier this year 75-58.

Coach Arad McCutchan's tall and speedy squad is led by stellar guard Marv Pruett, who displayed fine form in front of the partisan Puma fans, and sensational sophomore forward Jerry Sloan. Sloan, six-foot five inch forward is the only member of the squad who ranks among ICC leaders in both scoring and rebounding, with 16.2 per game respectively.

The remainder of Evansville's scoring punch comes from the well balanced attack of Harold "Buster" Briley, high scoring Aces guard, and forward Paul Bullard another top rebounder in the ICC. Six-foot seven inch center Ed Zausch provides added height off the boards.

Varsity View

Post posts conference play fieldhouse record of 42 points

By "HUCK" QUIGLEY

George Post not only established a fieldhouse record in conference play with his 42 points versus Ball State, but he also vaulted to the top of the ICC in individual scoring. In statistics released after the Cardinal game, the quick Ohio guard was averaging 22.2 points a game. His closest competitors were Ron Zalewski of DePauw and Puma Russ Marcinek. (Zalewski scored 33 points in a losing cause here last month. Beaver's average was 20.1).

Ironically, Post's league-leading pace was only eighth best in state scoring. Steve Kreigh (Huntington) and Jimmy Rayl (Indiana) were near the 25 mark while former St. Joe opponents Ken Strawn (Anderson) and Bill Noone (Marian) were hitting in the 23's. Rayl and Mel Garland of Purdue were the only major-college players listed with averages of 20 or better.

GEORGE POST

Another former opponent, Ron Reed of Notre Dame, was declared scholastically ineligible for the remainder of the Irish season, news from South Bend confirmed last Tuesday. The LaPorte, Indiana native scored 227 points in 16 games with a career high of 35, you will recall, against St. Joe in the season opener at South Bend, Dec. 10.

Speaking of South Bend, it should be mentioned that a St. Joe alumnus was elected National High School Coach-of-the-Year by the Knute Rockne Club of America.

In his daily sports column of Feb. 4, South Bend Tribune sports editor Joe Doyle reported that Mr. Walter Moore, head football mentor at South Bend's St. Joseph High School, was elected this year.

"Wally the Terrible" as we used to call him in days gone by, guided his Indians to nine straight victories after an opening loss, including five shutouts and the school's first victory over South Bend Central. Coach Moore has never suffered a losing season in his four years as head coach at St. Joe. The South Bend native graduated from here in 1949 and enjoyed several successful seasons in Ohio.

Congratulations are in store for gridders Ron Boguski Phil Zera, Dick Schreiber and especially Denny Houlihan for clutch performances this basketball season. Houlihan has added determined punch and color to the Ohio-dominated squad, which has been witnessed and appreciated by everyone with the possible exception of one official in the Evansville game. Keep up the good work, Houls.

Before a head-injury stifled Jim Betz's college football career, he was second only to All-Conference halfback Phil Zera in ground gaining. Rumor has it that Jim now is eating up yardage in his old stomping grounds—Jasper, Indiana—and she's only a junior. (Thanks to John Spindler).

SJ frosh basketball team to end season here Feb. 26

The freshman basketball team, with one game remaining against Indiana State, here, on February 26, presently have a 5-2 record.

Led by Tom Crowley, Dick Ossanna, Larry Yeagley, Carl Bosung, Bob Mokros, Tom Kish, and John Kelly, and coached by Don Merki the frosh cagers have rolled over Ball State twice and Valpo once, their only loss in ICC competition coming last Saturday at Valpo.

In the pre-conference games, the Joemen defeated the Monticello Merchants and Kentland A.A.U., their only loss coming against a strong University of Dayton team at Dayton.

Puma keggers swamp Loyola, 11-0, but do not advance on first-place ND

Bowling two 1039 games and only one game beneath 900, the St. Joseph's bowling team swamped the keggers of Loyola, 11-0, in MIBC competition last Sunday. The Pumas' pin total was 4811, to Loyola's 4537.

High man for the winners was Jim Madden, who rolled three 200-or-better games for a five-game total of 1012. Close behind were Jupinka and Harmon, each with .991; and Rich Hanson and John Spindler bowled 968 and 849 respectively.

Showing what Fr. Boniface Dreiling called their "best effort," the Pumas won three of the games in the 9th and 10th frames. The only easy victory came in the fourth game, which the defending MIBC champions won by 119 pins.

Despite their blanket victory, the Pumas did not advance on first-place Notre Dame, which also shut out DePaul, 11-0.

Ind. State hosted by Puma matmen

Coch Ed Dwyer's wrestlers, sporting a 1-5-1 season record, hosted the powerful Indiana State Sycamore wrestling team Wednesday in their fourth Indiana Collegiate Conference match of the season.

"They are possibly the state's finest wrestling squad and one of the best in the nation," says Dwyer, referring to the Sycamore grapplers.

Following the Indiana State match, the Pumas' travel to Decatur, Ill., Friday for the two-day Millikin Tourney which involves ten teams.

"This tourney should give a good indication of where we stand," says Dwyer.

On February 17-26 the National Collegiate Bridge Tournament will be held. Those interested in participating are asked to please sign up in pairs instead of individually. All names of participants must be turned into the I.M. office no later than February 15. The other states which will be included in our region of competition are Illinois and Wisconsin.

The IM basketball tourney begins next week. All teams who have not forfeited more than one game are eligible. The IM department figures show 43 eligible teams for the tournament, which will be the usual single elimination type.

Entries are now being taken for Intramural Wrestling tournament to be held during the month of February. The finals of the wrestling tournament will be held at half time of the Monogram-Faculty Basketball game at the end of the month. No frosh or varsity wrestlers are eligible. Times will be set for weigh-ins and instruction classes are being held this week. A student may enter any of the following weight divisions:

115 and under	137 and under	167 and under
123 and under	147 and under	177 and under
130 and under	157 and under	191 and under 192 or over

Entries are now being taken for I.M. Pinochle tournament which is to be held beginning February 11. Sign up in pairs and you are reminded that both partners must be from the same hall. The winner will be determined by the best two out of three games each of which will go to 150 points.

The IM department is also accepting entries for a double elimination volleyball tournament which will begin February 25 and for the checker tournament which will start February 18.

An I.M. Sportsmanship Trophy will also be awarded to the hall which demonstrates the most outstanding qualities in that area of intramural competition. It will be on display in the Rec hall.

Any new students who may have transferred at the semester and would like information about the IM program can stop by the IM office in the fieldhouse or pick up the IM Bulletin from the IM representative in his hall.

Evansville, DePauw

Even though Evansville is undefeated in conference competition, as a team they lead in only one department, team defense. The Purple Aces, with one of the tallest squads in the conference hold down the second spot in team rebounds.

On Wednesday, February 20 St. Joe faces the DePauw Tigers, at Greencastle. DePauw has one win in Indiana Collegiate Competition and resides next to the cellar position. The Pumas gained their first conference win over the Tigers earlier this year, 86-75.

Six-foot two inch forward, Ron Zalewski leads the DePauw attack and ranks as one of the top three ICC scorers, but is first in game scoring average with a 25.0 mark.

Sophomore center, 6-5 Paul Wilcher ranks seventh in individual rebounding in the ICC. The other guard spot is held by 6-1 Kent Flummerfelt and 6-6 Bob Hutto the forward position.

Give for the life of a child!

LOOK! I can walk without my braces!"

Linda Brees is one of the 250,000 children who are born in this country each year with a significant birth defect. Her open spine and water on the brain needed delicate surgery. She was one of the first treated at The National Foundation-sponsored Birth Defects Clinical Study Center at Children's Hospital in Columbus, Ohio.

Today, Linda's just about as active and exuberant as any other little charmer in her part of Ohio. To be on the safe side, she wears her braces outdoors and at school, but in the house they're often laid aside . . . perhaps one day forever.

Your dimes helped Linda walk. There are thousands of other Lindas, victims of birth defects, arthritis and polio. They need the help your dimes can give—to support research, and to bring medical care of the highest quality to every community in the nation.

Won't you give for the life of a child?
